MacArthur Cracks Down On Japs

HOME MINISTER, POLICE CHIEFS ORDERED FIRED

Political Leaders To Be Freed; Civil Liberty Is Restored

'THOUGHT POLICE' OUT

Removal Of Yamazaki May Speed Fall Of Present Jap Government

TOKYO, Oct. 4—Gen. Douglas MacArthur today ordered the Japanese government to oust its home minister, remove every police chief in the country, free more than 3,000 political prisoners and restore civil liberties to Japan.

In one of his most sweeping directives since Japan's surrender, MacArthur also demanded that the government abolish its notorious "thought police" and all other secret police, including those in the home and justice ministries.

He ordered the removal of all restrictions on political, civil and religious liberties and an end to all discrimination on grounds of race, nationality, creed or political opinion.

All persons jailed under those laws or held on technical minor charges because of their thoughts, or religious and political beliefs must be released by next Wednesday, MacArthur said.

Among those ordered freed were three Communist leaders who told the United Press in an interview that Emperor Hirohito must go "by execution, exile or retirement" before Japan can fulfill the Allied peace terms.

Earlier they had told a Chinese correspondent that they wished to get out of jail to lead a revolution against Emperor Hirohito and Japan's feudal system. President Truman already has directed MacArthur to remain aloof, if possible, from any Japanese civil war.

MacArthur's directive also banned physical punishment of all prisoners and ordered that ample food be provided for them. All prison records must be preserved and a full report on the government's progress toward complying with the directive must be furnished by next Wednesday, MacArthur said.

The order for removal of home minister Iwano Yamazaki and lifting of all restrictions on political discussions were expected to speed the fall of the Higashi-Kuni government.

MacArthur specifically directed that all laws forbidding "free thought and discussion" of Emperor Hirohito and the government must be wiped from the books.

The order for the abolition of "thought police" and other secret police organizations completed the end of an era. Through these organizations, Japan's ruling clique had guided even the thoughts of her masses throughout the war.

Troops And Red Cross Girls In 'No Man's Land' Between Chinese

CHUNGKING, Oct. 4—Five liaison planes today dropped emergency rations to American troops and Red Cross girls trapped in Kunning's western suburbs between warring Chinese central government forces and Yunnan provincial units.

Three American soldiers were wounded yesterday during skirmishing by the two Chinese forces over the dismissal of Gen. Lung Yun, one of China's most powerful war lords.

In an attempt to forestall additional incidents, U. S. headquarters ordered Americans to remain in their barracks unless on official business. Armed guards were ordered to escort all leaving the garrison area.

Unofficial reports said the American Red Cross workers, hostesses at the Kunning club for U. S. troops, were being guarded by armed American soldiers. They and the troops were reported to be the only Americans in the city's (Continued on Page Two)

DATE TO END SHOE RATIONING NOT SET YET

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—The government still hasn't decided when to end shoe rationing. When it does it hopes to ration the news suddenly, without advance warning, to prevent last-minute dealer abuses that might upset plans for proper distribution.

This was learned today from officials in the War Production Board and the Office of Price Administration—the two agencies which are trying to agree on the date for ending shoe rationing. They said the news of the date, when it is decided on, will be withheld until the night before the ration control actually goes off.

All concerned felt it would be possible to make shoes ration free within 60 days, possibly on Nov. 1. Earlier it had been expected that shoe rationing would end by Oct. 15.

The entire matter depends on how soon shoe manufacturers can turn out enough to meet current demands — 30,000,000 pairs a month, officials said.

Globestar On Last Leg Of Flight

Round-The-World Journey Expected To End At Washington Tonight

HAMILTON FIELD, Calif., Oct. 4—The Army transport command Globestar today was en route to Washington, D. C., on the last leg of a round the world flight which it was expected to complete in less than 150 hours.

The world circling plane arrived at Hamilton Field, 35 miles north of San Francisco, from Honolulu at 2:13 a. m. (PST). After a stopover of slightly more than three hours, it took off for Washington at 5:35 a. m. (PST).

Wary and hungry passengers were taken to the casual officers mess for drinks and a steak dinner. United Press Staff Correspondent Frederick C. Othman said he had been out of his clothes less than three times during the trip, now going into its fifth day.

Maj. J. A. Worrell, ATC, pilot of the Globestar, estimated the trip from Hamilton field to Washington would take 12 hours and 45 minutes. Thus it would arrive in Washington at about 9:20 p. m. EST, 149 hours and 22 minutes after its initial takeoff.

The huge transport plane brought back liberated prisoners of war on its flight back to the United States.

WPB ABOLISHED BY PRESIDENT; CPA IS CREATED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—President Truman today ordered the abolition of the War Production Board effective Nov. 3. It will be replaced by a new agency, the civilian production administration.

J. D. Small, who has served as chief of staff of WPB, will be head of the new agency. Chairman J. A. Krug's resignation will become effective on Nov. 3, the termination date for WPB.

The changes were made in an executive order signed today by the President.

The functions of the new agency laid down in the order will be for the primary purpose of facilitating "swift and orderly transition from wartime production to a maximum peacetime production in industry free from wartime government controls, with due regard for the stability of prices and cost."

The new agency was directed to assist in expanding production of scarce materials and limiting the manufacture of products for which materials or facilities are insufficient.

BYRNES RETURNS EMPTY - HANDED FROM MEETING

First Peace Conference Of World War II Appears To Have Been Failure

FACES MANY PROBLEMS

State Secretary Must Work On Argentine, Other Troubles Now

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes returns from the first peace conference of World War II today—empty handed.

But he was represented as still hopeful of being able to frame a lasting peace, and determined to continue trying.

Byrnes will arrive with his close associates by plane "sometime this morning" and will begin immediately a series of conferences with President Truman on the failure of the London foreign ministers' meeting.

Byrnes, who has been secretary only three months, faces three tremendous tasks:

1. Preparation of reports to the President, his top advisers, congress and the American people on the London conference. This will require shrewd tactics to prevent a swing toward cynicism and isolationism as a result of failure on the first try to draft peace treaties.

2. Prepare decisions on a multitude of pending foreign policy questions ranging from those created by the London conference to (Continued on Page Two)

TOP PRIORITY ASSIGNED ATOM

Quick Action On Commission To Study Power Planned; Truman Favors Secrecy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—Congressional leaders hung a "top priority" sign today on President Truman's request for creation of a special commission on use and development of atomic power.

Bills setting up an "atomic energy commission" were started through both the house and senate amid general expressions of approval for the recommendations made by the President late yesterday in his long-awaited message on atomic power and the atomic bomb.

In his message Mr. Truman: 1. Said the secret of the atomic bomb, now held by the United States, Britain and Canada, would not be disclosed.

2. Expressed hope that the nations of the world would renounce the atomic bomb in warfare.

3. Said he would begin immediately international discussions to seek "agreement on the conditions under which cooperation might replace rivalry in the field of atomic power."

Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley said the President's proposal for an atomic energy commission rated a "very high priority in legislative action."

"Unquestionably," he said, "the President felt it to be so important that something should be done without awaiting the formalities of joint action by congress or disapproval by the Senate."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—The U. S. Ninth army is being deactivated as of Oct. 10 at Fort Bragg, N. C.

The Ninth, which fought through the Siegfried line and across the Rhine into Germany under the command of Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson, ceased functioning as an army last July and subsequently headquarters were transferred to this country.

GEN. LEMAY OFFERED POST

Leader Of Famed B-29 Group May Become Successor To H. H. Burton

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4—Maj. Gen. Curtis Le May, commander of the famed B-29 bomber group which leveled Japanese industry, has been offered the position of interim appointee to the Ohio U. S. senate seat, it was learned reliably today.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche said today he had talked with the 38-year-old general at the airport here last night but he declined to comment "on the subject of our discussions."

He said he was not yet ready to announce appointment of a successor to former Sen. Harold H. Burton who was elevated to the U. S. Supreme court.

It was learned, however, that Lausche talked with the general by telephone yesterday and Le May later flew from New York to his home at Lakewood near Cleveland before coming here last night. Although no decision was reached, the informant said, Le May "appeared receptive to the offer."

Le May left for Washington today. His acceptance of such an appointment would make it necessary that he be released from the Army.

BRADLEY BEATS MEDICAL MEN TO DRAW ON VA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—A 15-man advisory group of prominent medical men who came here to tell Gen. Omar N. Bradley what was wrong with the Veterans Administration found today that he beat them to the draw.

Bradley has adopted for his own some of the main ideas the committee had previously propounded, with little success, to Bradley's predecessor.

One was to elevate VA's medical director to an independent status. Bradley recently did just that, naming Maj. Gen. Paul R. Hawley as surgeon general.

Other suggestions, already blueprinted by Bradley for early action, called for closer ties between VA hospitals and medical teaching centers, creation of internships, and encouragement of medical research.

The group also wanted better pay scales to make VA medical work more attractive to good doctors, and suggested creation of a hospital corps along the lines of the public health service.

Seizure Leaves Government Officials Clear To Work On Other Strikes

COAL ISSUE NEXT PROBLEM

Schwellenbach Reported Ready To Waive Into Fuel Arguments

By United Press
Government seizure of strike-bound oil refineries was expected momentarily today following the collapse of negotiations to end the coast-to-coast walkout by 35,000 CIO oil workers.

President Truman was scheduled to order seizure of all strike-bound oil plants today, leaving the way clear for top government officials to step into other major disputes threatening the nation's fuel supplies.

The seizure announcement was issued from the White House last night less than three hours after all but one of 11 oil companies rejected a proposal to submit the coast-to-coast wage controversy arbitration.

It was not immediately clear whether rank-and-file oil workers, on strike in plants and refineries over a 15-state area, would return to work under government supervision.

In Washington, President O. A. Knight of the United Oil Workers international union (CIO) disclosed that the union's executive board would meet today when it "might have a statement."

Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach abruptly terminated conferences between union and industry representatives yesterday after 10 companies rejected his compromise proposal to restore production in the nation's oil refineries. ### HOUSE GROUP TRIES TO SPEED UP DISCHARGES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—The house military affairs committee was looking today for a method to speed through war department red tape to speed Army demobilizations.

Chairman Andrew J. May, D. Ky., who appointed 12 subcommittees to visit Army separation centers, said reports from these groups indicated the program was "proceeding in a generally satisfactory manner, but looked as if some things could be done to speed it up."

May said he referred particularly to delays caused by incomplete records, and other personnel information that the war department says it must have for each man before he could be released.

The chairman and other committee members pointed out that some delays were due to lack of transportation facilities, and that the sudden end of Japanese war caught the Army with demobilization problems on two fronts.

Meanwhile, congress received new proposals for demobilization. Rep. Thomas S. Gordon, D. Ill., introduced a bill to provide for the immediate discharge of fathers in the Army or Navy.

Rep. Karl L. LeCompte, R., Iowa, introduced another to direct the discharge of soldiers and sailors who have lost a brother in the service.

CHICAGO LEADING IN SECOND GAME OF WORLD SERIES

Odds Favor Cubs To Capture Lion's Share Of Gold In Rich Series; Trucks And Wyse Starting Pitchers

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 4—Hank Wyse for Chicago and Virgil Trucks for Detroit were the starting pitchers as the second game of the World Series classic opened under sunny skies after yesterday's cloudy and cold weather before a capacity crowd of mostly Detroit rooters at Briggs stadium.

The Tigers were out to take the ball game to avenge their shutout loss to the hard-hitting Cub sluggers, 9-0, in the opening contest, but the Cubs were equally determined to make it two straight.

Betting odds favored the Cubs slightly to take what may be the richest series in the history of the Fall classic.

The Cubs today failed to take the first inning advantage that Wednesday chilled Detroit fans. The Bruins threatened again today but a great throw by Hank Greenberg cut off a score.

Stanley Hack singled to open the game, moved to second on Don Johnson's sacrifice, and tried to score on "Peanuts" Lowrey's single but Greenberg's throw cut him down at the plate.

FIRST INNING
CHICAGO—Hack singles; Johnson sacrifices; Lowrey singles; Hack out at home; Cavarretta out. No runs, two hits, no errors.

DETROIT—Webb flies out; Mayo flies out; Cramer put out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SECOND INNING
CHICAGO—Pafko flies out; Nicholson flies out; Gillespie flies out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

DETROIT—Greenberg flies out; Cullenbine walks; York strikes out; Outlaw singles; Richards out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

THIRD INNING
CHICAGO—Hughes put out; Wyse strikes out; Hack singles; Johnson strikes out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

DETROIT—Trucks put out; Webb flies out; Mayo put out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FOURTH INNING
CHICAGO—Lowrey put out; Cavarretta doubles; Pafko put out; Nicholson singles; Cavarretta scores; Gillespie flies out. One run, two hits, no errors.

18,493 TROOPS DUE TO LAND AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—Eleven ships, carrying 18,493 servicemen, were scheduled to dock today in strike-bound New York harbor.

Joseph P. Ryan, president of the international longshoremen's association (AFL), said the strike of 60,000 workers throughout the port would not affect the debarking of the veterans.

The Argentina carried 7,662 troops, including the 121st and 136th station hospitals; 634th AAA battalion, and civilians of the U. S. diplomatic corps, the OSS, OWI and ARC.

The Vulcanica carried 4,591, including 547 WACs, the largest shipment to be returned from overseas duty since the end of the war. Also aboard were the 40th station hospital; 486th and 832nd medical hospital ship platoons.

Derisive laughter swept the courtroom. Mongibeaux interposed: "M. Laval, you have the right to speak when I give you time to speak."

MERGER BACKERS TRY TO FORCE SPEEDY ACTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—Advocates of an Army-Navy merger sought today to force action in both houses of congress as the war department appeared ready to offer a concrete unification plan.

In the house the campaign took the form of a suggestion that the merger proposal be added as an amendment to the executive reorganization bill now under consideration.

Rep. Jennings Randolph, D. W. Va., who first introduced merger legislation in 1940, said he was "seriously considering" offering the merger amendment but refused to say definitely that he would take such action. He is awaiting an expression of views from the White House.

SHEET PRICES UPPED
WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—The Office of Price Administration said somewhat apologetically today that it would have to increase the price of sheets and pillow cases to the public. The OPA explained that the Bankhead amendment to the price control extension act of 1944 required it to raise manufacturers' prices on bed linen on two separate occasions.

WOULD HONOR UNKNOWN
WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers, R., Mass., has introduced a proposal calling for the burial of two unknown soldier dead of World War two—one from Europe, the other from the Pacific—at Arlington National cemetery.

negotiations in the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage increase.

As the White House prepared to direct operation of the oil industry, the labor secretary was reported ready to move into strikes in the soft coal fields, where an estimated 350 mines have shut down.

The solid fuels administration yesterday extended emergency controls to two or more mining districts, restricting shipments to essential users such as hospitals, utilities, railroads, ships and city transit systems.

Acting SFA administrator Abe Fortas added district 4, Ohio, and district 7, in the southern West Virginia - Virginia "smokeless" coal area, to a list of four districts brought under the distribution program Tuesday.

Fortas said 115,000 miners had left their jobs in the dispute over unionization of supervisory employees and estimated the production loss at 675,000 tons daily.

Collapse of negotiations to settle the two-week-old petroleum work stoppage marked failure in the newly-organized labor department's initial attempt to mediate a major labor dispute.

Labor Secretary Schwelbensch said he was "very much disappointed" in the turn of events and admitted frankly that he did not know what steps would be taken to end other strikes, idling 490,000 workers throughout the country.

Schwelbensch said he had recommended seizure only after it became apparent that the eight-day-old conciliation hearings were doomed to end in failure.

The union had accepted the plan to resume production under a 40-hour week and temporary 15 per cent wage increase, pending arbitration of the wage issue, but Schwelbensch said the oil companies, with the exception of Sinclair Oil Co., had so qualified their replies that "it was simply impossible to have conducted an arbitration."

Meanwhile, additional oil workers walked out in Texas and Washington, D. C., striking longshoremen tied up New York shipping, and telephone workers went ahead with plans for a four-hour work stoppage tomorrow to consider strike action.

Tension mounted in the explosive automotive situation today following General Motors corporation's blunt refusal to accede to a union wage demand.

In a letter to CIO United Auto Workers Vice President Walter P. Reuther, the nation's richest producers of automobiles announced flatly that "we shall resist the monopolistic power of your union to force this increase in basic wages."

General Motors President C. E. Wilson charged that the UAW's demand for "excess wages" on the assumption that they could be paid from past profits or from assumed future excess profits was not sound.

"General Motors can not and will not use money saved up for years for the purpose of modernizing and expanding its plants, and for providing more good jobs, to pay excess wages for work not performed," Wilson said.

The sternly-worded pronouncement came during the first day of negotiations on the union's demand for a 30 per cent blanket wage increase, the equivalent of a sixth day's work at time and a half.

Three hundred Humble Oil Co. workers left their jobs yesterday at the Ingleside refinery at Corpus Christi, Tex., in support of CIO wage demands. The Sinclair Corp. refinery at Fort Worth, and the Texas Pipeline Co. also were closed, bringing to 25 the number of Texas refineries shut down.

On the west coast, workers at four Shell Oil Co. refineries were expected to strike momentarily, and 75 Washington, D. C., oil workers joined the nationwide walkout last night.

New York port operations were paralyzed again today as a strike of longshoremen spread to 60,000 waterfront workers, and union officials reported shipping was tied up "tighter than a drum."

The situation was described as critical by Capt. Hewlett R. Bishop, Atlantic coast director of the war shipping administration, who said that 100 vessels had been delayed in their sailings. Strike leaders denied troopship movements had been held up.

Telephone workers throughout the nation prepared to gather for four-hour meetings tomorrow to vote on possible strike action. In New York, Joseph Blum, president of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, said his members had been aggravated by the telephone companies to a point where it might be difficult to avert a full scale strike.

The strike meetings were expected to tie up long distance calls and local service whenever the au-

C OF C HEAD SAYS U. S. MUST HELP BRITAIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—Winthrop W. Aldrich, president of the international Chamber of Commerce, said today that the United States economic well-being hinged on what financial aid we give to England.

Aldrich told the New York State Chamber of Commerce that multilateral trade in great volume was the only way the world's economic ills could be cured. Multilateral trade can only function, Aldrich said, in the framework of private enterprise.

"My belief that we should render financial aid to England is based not only upon moral grounds, but upon the firm conviction that restoration of multilateral trade in great volume is essential to the economic well-being of ourselves, of England and all of the other members of the British commonwealth of nations," Aldrich said.

He said that any aid we granted to England could be considered in the nature of retroactive lend-lease because if our lend-lease had been enacted before March, 1941, "England would not have had to liquidate such a large volume of her foreign investments or dip so heavily into her gold reserves."

AMG REDUCES FOOD SUPPLIES TO REFUGEES

FRANKFURT, Oct. 4—Supplies of fresh vegetables and fruits drawn from German civilian stocks for displaced persons in the American zone of Germany were reduced drastically last night by the American military government.

Fresh food permits for camps housing refugees and "slave laborers" were canceled on grounds that civilian stocks in Germany were growing dangerously low for the coming winter.

Camp officials described the order as a "disastrous blow to efforts to rehabilitate our persecuted allies." Some circles viewed the order as completely contrary to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's recent directive that displaced persons live on a standard at least equal to that of the Germans.

SAN FRANCISCO APPEARS CHOICE FOR UNO OFFICE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—San Francisco appeared to have the inside track today for being chosen headquarters of the United Nations organization, but its competitors were turning on the heat.

The United Nations preparatory commission meeting in London voted yesterday that the permanent headquarters of the new world organization should be in the United States.

The exact location was left undecided. The executive committee will meet next week to consider suggestions for sites and their relative merits.

RFC PUTS UP FOR SALE 18 MORE WAR PLANTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—The Reconstruction Finance Corp. today put up for sale or lease by private industry an additional 18 government-owned plants no longer needed to turn out the tools of war.

All the plants are complete with utilities and all but two have adjoining railroad sidings or spurs, the RFC said. Nine of the plants were used for some form of airplane production.

SOLDIER KILLED VALPARAISO, IND., OCT. 4—An Army private, tentatively identified as Clyde F. Krause of Gallipolis, O., was killed yesterday when he apparently fell from a Pennsylvania railroad train west of here. Authorities based identification on a railroad ticket, which showed the soldier was traveling from San Francisco to Columbus, O.

The Run That Started Cubs' Series Scoring Spree

DON Johnson, Chicago Cubs' second baseman, hopes across the plate in the first inning of the first game of the 1945 World Series in Briggs stadium in Detroit. The run touched off a Cub scoring spree which drove Hal Newhouser, the Detroit Tigers' star moundsman, to the shower and gave the Cubs a stunning 9-0 victory. Johnson scored from third when a low pitch got away from Detroit's Catcher Paul Richards. The Cubs scored four runs in this inning.

cussions between our country and other nations."

Legislation to create a special nine-man commission was introduced in the senate by Acting Chairman Edwin C. Johnson, D. Colo., of the military affairs committee, and promptly ran into a jurisdictional snarl.

Johnson, backed by Barkley, believed that the bill properly was in the province of the military affairs committee. Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R. Mich., objected vigorously, and sought instead to have it referred to a joint committee of both houses. They agreed to postpone the final decision until today.

The President's message represented the composite recommendation of the Army, Navy and state department and the full cabinet.

In his message Mr. Truman emphasized that the proposed international discussions would not concern disclosure of the manufacturing processes of the atomic bomb itself. Rather they will "constitute an effort to work out arrangements covering the terms under which international collaboration and exchange of scientific information might proceed."

For the atomic energy commission the President asked these powers:

1. Full supervision and control over all land, mineral deposits and other materials which provide sources of atomic energy. This power would extend to the atomic bomb plants, too, and they will be kept operating.

2. The authority to purchase any real or personal property in or out of the United States.

3. The right to issue licenses for the use of commission facilities for research and exploitation, such licensing to be conducted on a policy of widespread distribution of peacetime products on equitable terms to prevent monopoly.

4. The authority to establish security regulations concerning the handling of all information, material and equipment under commission jurisdiction.

NAVY CIVILIAN WORKERS MAY GET SAME PAY TOTAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—Civilian employees of the Navy department would receive the same take-home pay for a 40-hour week that they received during the war on a 48-hour week under a bill introduced by Rep. Hugh de Lacy, D. Wash.

De Lacy said his proposal was "essential to an economy of prosperity and full production." He said purchasing power in communities where there are Navy yards and other naval establishments has fallen off from 30 to 50 per cent, primarily because of the loss in wages that accompanied the hour cutbacks.

180 TITLES ISSUED

One hundred and eighty new titles were issued by the title department of the clerk of court's office during the month of September. Seventy-five lien cancellations and 83 lien cancellations were recorded. Four new trucks were sold during the month.

DRIVER FINED

Edgar Musick of Huntington, W. Va., civilian driver of an Army truck, was fined $15 and costs in Squire B. T. Hedges court Thursday for trying to pass the M & R Dietrich truck driven by H. # FIRST OCTOBER BABY TITLE IS STILL VACANT

The Herald Thursday was still looking for a first baby of the month following a confusion in names.

Dr. Lloyd Jonnes Wednesday reported the birth of a boy to a family believed to have lived in the city. Due to a misunderstanding of names by him the parents were announced as Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Martin, West High street.

Thursday he reported the parents were Mr. and Mrs. James Mumaw and that they live in the county, making the baby ineligible for the prizes in the "baby-of-the-month" contest.

SENATE CONFIRMS MEN NAMED TO U. S. POSTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—The senate has confirmed without debate the appointment of Gov. J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island to be solicitor general of the United States.

The senate also confirmed Harrington Wimberly of Oklahoma and Richard Sachsel of California to be members of the federal power commission. John J. O'Connell of Pennsylvania was confirmed as judge for the third circuit court of appeals.

PRESS CENSORSHIP TO BE IMPOSED BY PORTUGAL

LISBON, Oct. 4—Reliable sources said today that Portugal soon will publish a law banning "improper" press discussion of international events, economic developments and domestic politics.

Reporters and directors of newspapers violating the statute will be liable to arrest and fines. Censorship will become effective simultaneously with publication of the statute.

AUTO AND TRUCK COLLIDE AT RAILROAD CROSSING

An automobile driven by Helen Owens, route 2 Circleville, and a truck driven by Decho Evanoff of Kent, collided at the South Court street crossing of the N&W at 3:30 a. m. Thursday police reported.

The car hit the truck which was parked waiting for a train to pass, the report said. The right side of the car was badly damaged, two windows were broken. A tire on the truck blew out.

Brig. Gen. Merle Thorpe, chief of MacArthur's counter-intelligence corps, said the supreme command acted only after it had given the government "plenty of time to do this themselves."

"They couldn't possibly have misunderstood our wishes," they said.

The directive marked the first time that MacArthur has ordered the removal of a specific member of the Japanese cabinet.

One other member, information minister Taketora Ogata, was ousted by the cabinet on its own initiative after he was named by MacArthur as a war criminal for alleged leadership of the terroristic Black Dragon society. Charges against Ogata later were dropped without explanation, but he did not return to the cabinet.

Two developments led to MacArthur's order for the ouster of Yamazaki as home minister. The first was his admission to Japanese newsmen that "thought police" still were functioning and the second was the death in prison from maltreatment of Kiyoshi Miki, 49, who had opposed the Pearl Harbor attack.

Miki's friend said a second political prisoner, Jun Tosaka, had died in Nagano prison August 9 also under mysterious circumstances. Shoichi Ichikawa, former leader of the Japanese Communist party, died at 54 in Miyagi penitentiary last March from "senility following pneumonia," other Japanese sources said.

It was estimated that 3,000 "liberals" have been imprisoned by the Japanese since Pearl Harbor alone. Others were jailed as long ago as 1928 on such charges as disturbing the public peace.

He said that he had heard shot fired less than a block from his office.

Gen. Tu Li-Minh, commander of the central government's fifth route army, declared martial law in Kunming yesterday after Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek had ordered abolition of the city's police and garrison headquarters.

Gen. Lu Han, central government military representative in Kunming, was appointed governor of Yunnan province yesterday by the generalissimo to succeed Lung Yun.

Lung was removed from office Tuesday after clashes between his troops and those of the generalissimo in the Kunming area, an important American and Chinese military headquarters during the war.

Lu, commander of provincial troops, at present is in Indo-China with three divisions of Lung's troops accepting the surrender of Japanese forces in that area.

ACTION FOLLOWS BREAKDOWN IN NEGOTIATIONS

Seizure Leaves Government Officials Clear To Work
On Other Strikes

negotiations in the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage increase.

As the White House prepared to direct operation of the oil industry, the labor secretary was reported ready to move into strikes in the soft coal fields, where an estimated 350 mines have shut down.

The solid fuels administration yesterday extended emergency controls to two or more mining districts, restricting shipments to essential users such as hospitals, utilities, railroads, ships and city transit systems.

Acting SFA administrator Abe Fortas added district 4, Ohio, and district 7, in the southern West Virginia - Virginia "smokeless" coal area, to a list of four districts brought under the distribution program Tuesday.

Fortas said 115,000 miners had left their jobs in the dispute over unionization of supervisory employees and estimated the production loss at 675,000 tons daily.

Collapse of negotiations to settle the two-week-old petroleum work stoppage marked failure in the newly-organized labor department's initial attempt to mediate
a major labor dispute.

Labor Secretary Schwelienbach said he was "very much disappointed" in the turn of events and admitted frankly that he did not know what steps would be taken to end other strikes, idling 490,000 workers throughout the country.

Schwelienbach said he had recommended seizure only after it became apparent that the eight-day-old conciliation hearings were doomed to end in failure.

The union had accepted the plan to resume production under a 40-hour week and temporary 15 per cent wage increase, pending arbitration of the wage issue, but Schwelienbach said the oil companies, with the exception of Sinclair Oil Co., had so qualified their reply that "it was simply impossible to have conducted an arbitration."

Meanwhile, additional oil workers walked out in Texas and Washington, D. C., striking longshoremen tied up New York shipping, and telephone workers went ahead with plans for a four-hour work stoppage tomorrow to consider strike action.

Tension mounted in the explosive automotive situation today following General Motors corporation's blunt refusal to accede to a union wage demand.

In a letter to CIO United Auto Workers Vice President Walter P.
Reuther, the nation's richest producers of automobiles announced flatly that "we shall resist the monopolistic power of your union to force this increase in basic wages."

General Motors President C. E.
Wilson charged that the UAW's demand for "excess wages" on the assumption that they could be paid from past profits or from assumed future excess profits was not sound.

"General Motors can not and will not use money saved up for years for the purpose of modernizing and expanding its plants, and for providing more good jobs, to pay excess wages for work not performed," Wilson said.

The sternly worded pronouncement came during the first day of negotiations on the union's demand for a 30 per cent blanket wage increase, the equivalent of a sixth day's work at time and a half.

Three hundred Humble Oil Co. workers left their jobs yesterday at the Ingleside refinery at Corpus Christi, Tex., in support of CIO wage demands. The Sinclair corporation refinery at Fort Worth, and the Texas Pipeline Co. also were closed, bringing to 25 the number of Texas refineries shut down.

On the west coast, workers at four Shell Oil Co. refineries were expected to strike momentarily, and 75 Washington, D. C., oil workers joined the nationwide walkout last night.

New York port operations were paralyzed again today as a strike of longshoremen spread to 60,000 waterfront workers, and union officials reported shipping was tied up "tighter than a drum."

The situation was described as critical by Capt. Hewlett R. Bishop, Atlantic coast director of the war shipping administration, who said that 100 vessels had been delayed in their sailings. Strike leaders denied troopship movements had been held up.

Telephone workers throughout the nation prepared to gather for four-hour meetings tomorrow to vote on possible strike action. In New York, Joseph B. Byrne, president of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, said his members had been aggravated by the telephone companies to a point where it might be difficult to avert a full scale strike.

The strike meetings were expected to tie up long distance calls and local service whenever the au-

C OF C HEAD SAYS U. S. MUST HELP BRITAIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Winthrop
W. Aldrich, president of the international Chamber of Commerce, said today that the United States economic well-being hinged on what financial aid we give to England.

Aldrich told the New York State Chamber of Commerce that multilateral trade in great volume was the only way the world's economic ills could be cured. Multilateral trade can only function, Aldrich said, in the framework of private enterprise.

"My belief that we should render financial aid to England is based not only upon moral grounds, but upon the firm conviction that restoration of multilateral trade in great volume is essential to the economic well-being of ourselves, of England and all of the other members of the British commonwealth of nations," Aldrich said.

He said that any aid we granted to England could be considered in the nature of retroactive lend-lease because if our lend-lease had been enacted before March, 1941,
"England would not have had to liquidate such a large volume of her foreign investments or dip so heavily into her gold reserves."

AMG REDUCES FOOD SUPPLIES TO REFUGEES

FRANKFURT, Oct. 4.—Supplies of fresh vegetables and fruits drawn from German civilian stocks for displaced persons in the American zone of Germany were reduced drastically last night by the American military government.

Fresh food permits for camps housing refugees and "slave laborers" were canceled on grounds that civilian stocks in Germany were growing dangerously low for the coming winter.

Camp officials described the order as a "disastrous blow to efforts to rehabilitate our persecuted allies." Some circles viewed the order as completely contrary to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's recent directive that displaced persons live on a standard at least equal to that of the Germans.

SAN FRANCISCO APPEARS CHOICE FOR UNO OFFICE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—San Francisco appeared to have the inside track today for being chosen headquarters of the United Nations organization, but its competitors were turning on the heat.

The United Nations preparatory commission meeting in London voted yesterday that the permanent headquarters of the new world organization should be in the United States.

The exact location was left undecided. The executive committee will meet next week to consider suggestions for sites and their relative merits.

RFC PUTS UP FOR SALE 18 MORE WAR PLANTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The Reconstruction Finance Corp. today put up for sale or lease by private industry an additional 18 government-owned plants no longer needed to turn out the tools of war.

All the plants are complete with utilities and all but two have adjoining railroad sidings or spurs, the RFC said. Nine of the plants were used for some form of airplane production.

SOLDIER KILLED VALPARAISO, IND., OCT. 4.—An

Army private, tentatively identified as Clyde F. Krause of Gallipolis, O., was killed yesterday
when he apparently fell from a Pennsylvania railroad train west of here. Authorities based identification on a railroad ticket, which showed the soldier was traveling from San Francisco to Columbus, O.

LIEN SETTLED

A lien has been settled and the

Dr. H. E. LeFever and Dr. R. J.
Secrest versus Arnsel and Marguerite Campbell.

The earth-girdling Globester plane will not stop at New York.

tomatic dial system is unavailable.
Elsewhere, Great Lakes shipping was threatened by a possible
"general protest strike" as union and management failed to settle a dispute of Buffalo, N. Y., tug-men.

An eight-city walkout of Railway Express drivers and helpers, affiliated with the AFL teamsters union, was scheduled for Monday to press demands for a 20 per cent pay boost.

The Run That Started Cubs' Series Scoring Spree

DON Johnson, Chicago Cubs' second baseman, lopes across the plate in the first inning of the first game of the 1945 World Series in Briggs stadium in Detroit. The run touched off a Cub scoring spree which drove Hal Newhouser, the Detroit Tigers' star moundman, to the shower and gave the Cubs a stunning 9-0 victory. Johnson scored from third when a low pitch got away from Detroit's Catcher Paul Richards. The Cubs scored four runs in this inning.

cussions between our country and other nations."

Legislation to create a special nine-man commission was introduced in the senate by Acting Chairman Edwin C. Johnson, D., Colo., of the military affairs committee, and promptly ran into a jurisdictional snarl.

Johnson, backed by Barkley, believed that the bill properly was in the province of the military affairs committee. Sen. Arthur H.
Vandenberg, R., Mich., objected vigorously, and sought instead to have it referred to a joint committee of both houses. They agreed to postpone the final decision until today.

The President's message represented the composite recommendation of the Army, Navy and state department and the full cabinet.

In his message Mr. Truman emphasized that the proposed international discussions would not concern disclosure of the manufacturing processes of the atomic bomb itself.
Rather they will "constitute an effort to work out arrangements covering the terms under which international collaboration and exchange of scientific information might proceed."

For the atomic energy commission the President asked these powers:

1. Full supervision and control over all land, mineral deposits and other materials which provide sources of atomic energy. This power would extend to the atomic bomb plants, too, and they will be kept operating.
2. The authority to purchase any real or personal property in or out of the United States.
3. The right to issue licenses for the use of commission facilities for research and exploitation, such licensing to be conducted on a policy of widespread distribution of peacetime products on equitable terms to prevent monopoly.
4. The authority to establish security regulations concerning the handling of all information, material and equipment under commission jurisdiction.

NAVY CIVILIAN WORKERS MAY GET SAME PAY TOTAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Civilian employees of the Navy department would receive the same take-home pay for a 40-hour week that they received during the war on a 48-hour week under a bill introduced by Rep. Hugh de Lacy, D., Wash.
De Lacy said his proposal was "essential to an economy of prosperity and full production." He said purchasing power in communities where there are Navy yards and other naval establishments has fallen off from 30 to 50 per cent, primarily because of the loss in wages that accompanied the hour cutbacks.

RADIO RECOVERED

A radio stolen from the Presbyterian church Sunday has been recovered by the Circleville police at a local second-hand store. It was believed to have been stolen by a hobo who was found sleeping in the church by the pastor. The alleged thief made his getaway.

FAVORS TROOP USE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Sen.
Edwin C. Johnson, D., Colo., said today he would agree to use of U. S. troops in Palestine if a step-up in Jewish immigration resulted in an Arab uprising.

BYRNES RETURNS EMPTY-HANDED FROM MEETING

First Peace Conference Of World War II Appears To Have Been Failure

the forthcoming international discussions of the atomic bomb.

3. Continuation of his reorganization of the state department, plus decisions on how much to keep of many wartime agencies toed in his lap.

Before Byrnes left for London, he promised that he would give the appropriate congressmen committees a complete fill-in upon his return. While in London his aides said he planned a radio address to the nation. Despite the final breakdown of the meeting, Byrnes is expected to report to both groups at an early date.

He will face three immediate problems which grew out of the London conference.

First, there is his compromise proposal for machinery for drafting peace treaties in opposition to Soviet Russia's suggestion that the big three do the job. Byrnes would leave the preliminary work to the big three but wants a subsequent peace conference of all nations who made a major fighting contribution against the axis. The answer from Moscow is awaited on that.

Second is the Byrnes plan for a meeting here soon to form a far eastern commission to formulate policy for Japan. The U. S., USSR, China, Britain, Australia, New Zealand, France, the Philippines, Canada and The Netherlands will be members.

And third is the latest Russian proposal for four-power control government for Japan—to be set up before the far eastern commission suggested by Byrnes.

Byrnes also faces a difficult western hemisphere problem—
Argentina. His undersecretary, Dean Acheson, denounced Argentina yesterday as a repudiator of agreements and announced that this country would not sit at the same conference table with the present Argentine regime.

That was a marked change in policy for the U. S., which helped to get Argentina seated at the San Francisco conference last Spring. It is part of the plan for putting continuing moral pressure upon the present regime which Byrnes' predecessors had tagged as pro-fascist. Acheson called for postponement of the inter-American conference at Rio de Janeiro on Oct. 20 and also proposed immediate consultation by the Americans on "the Argentine situation."

180 TITLES ISSUED

One hundred and eighty new titles were issued by the title department of the clerk of court's office during the month of September. Seventy-five lien notations and 83 lien cancellations were recorded. Four new trucks were sold during the month.

DRIVER FINED

Edgar Musick of Huntingdon,
W. Va., civilian driver of an Army truck, was fined $15 and costs in Squire B. T. Hedges court Thursday for trying to pass the M & R Dietetic truck driven by H. Hunt without proper clearance. The trucks bumped on Route 23 south at 9 a. m. Thursday. Neither truck was badly damaged.

FIRST OCTOBER BABY TITLE IS STILL VACANT

The Herald Thursday was still looking for a first baby of the month following a confusion in names.

Dr. Lloyd Jonnes Wednesday reported the birth of a boy to a family believed to have lived in the city. Due to a misunderstanding of names by him the parents were announced as Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Martin, West High street.
Thursday he reported the parents were Mr. and Mrs. James Munaw and that they live in the county, making the baby ineligible for the prizes in the "baby-of-the-month" contest.

SENATE CONFIRMS MEN NAMED TO U. S. POSTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The senate has confirmed without debate the appointment of Gov. J.
Howard McGrath of Rhode Island to be solicitor general of the United States.

The senate also confirmed Harrington Wimberly of Oklahoma and Richard Sachsel of California to be members of the federal power commission. John J.
O'Connell of Pennsylvania was confirmed as judge for the third circuit court of appeals.

PRESS CENSORSHIP TO BE IMPOSED BY PORTUGAL

LISBON, Oct. 4.—Reliable sources said today that Portugal soon will publish a law banning "improper" press discussion of international events, economic developments and domestic politics.
Reporters and directors of newspapers violating the statute will be liable to arrest and fines. Censorship will become effective simultaneously with publication of the statute.

AUTO AND TRUCK COLLIDE AT RAILROAD CROSSING

An automobile driven by Helen Owens, route 2 Circleville, and a truck driven by Decho Evanoff of Kent, collided at the South Court street crossing of the N&W at 3:30
a. m. Thursday police reported.
The car hit the truck which was parked waiting for a train to pass, the report said. The right side of the car was badly damaged, two windows were broken. A tire on the truck blew out.

LAST AMERICAN BATTLE PATIENT LEAVES ENGLAND

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The last American battle casualty patient in the United Kingdom was scheduled to sail from Southampton today for the United States.

He was S-Sgt. Max Moeller, 26, of Miami, an infantry squad leader who was wounded in Germany last April.

HOME MINISTER, POLICE CHIEFS ORDERED FIRED

Political Leaders To Be Freed; Civil Liberty Is Restored

and in the years of preparation before.

Brig. Gen. Merle Thorpe, chief of MacArthur's counter-intelligence corps, said the supreme command acted only after it had given the government "plenty of time to do this themselves."

"They couldn't possibly have misunderstood our wishes," they said.

The directive marked the first time that MacArthur has ordered the removal of a specific member of the Japanese cabinet.

One other member, information minister Taketora Ogata, was ousted by the cabinet on its own initiative after he was named by MacArthur as a war criminal for alleged leadership of the terroristic Black Dragon society. Charges against Ogata later were dropped without explanation, but he did not return to the cabinet.

Two developments led to Mac-Arthur's order for the ouster of Yamazaki as home minister. The first was his admission to Japanese newsmen that "thought police" still were functioning and the second was the death in prison from maltreatment of Kiyoshi Miki, 49, who had opposed the Pearl Harbor attack.

Miki's friend said a second political prisoner, Jun Tosaka, had died in Nagano prison August 9 also under mysterious circumstances.
Shoichi Ichikawa, former leader of the Japanese Communist party, died at 54 in Miyagi penitentiary
last March from "senility following pneumonia," other Japanese sources said.

It was estimated that 3,000 "liberals" have been imprisoned by the Japanese since Pearl Harbor alone.
Others were jailed as long ago as 1928 on such charges as disturbing the public peace.

NEWS OF OUR MEN and WOMEN IN UNIFORM

Maj. Hilaire E. Haecker, 27, son of Mrs. C. F. Haecker of 166 East High St., Circleville, Ohio, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for "meritorious achievement" in the field of movements and transportation. It has been announced by Headquarters, AAF, Mediterranean Theater of Operations. The medal was presented by Brig. Gen. Charles T. Myers, Mediterranean air commander, in a ceremony held at AAF/MTO headquarters in Caserta, Italy, near Naples.

As officer in charge of AAF ground movements and transportation from March 13, 1945, to May 8, 1945, Maj. Haecker "made certain that all the details required in the movement of personnel and equipment were successfully accomplished," the citation read. "He was charged with the responsibility of bidding for all AAF transportation with Headquarters, Mediterranean Theater of Operations, USA, with the preparation and publication of movement directives for all Air Force units and personnel in this theater, and with the successful handling of the additional variety of details that came within his purview."

An accountant in Circleville, Maj. Haecker entered the service June 1, 1941, and received his commission at the Officer Candidates School, Miami Beach, Fla. He came overseas May 17, 1944. He is a former student of Franklin University.

His wife, Mrs. Mary Lee Haecker, and their son, Christopher F. Haecker, reside at 3533 Meadowbrook Drive, Fort Worth, Texas.

WORK TRENDS TO BE REPORTED ON USES FORMS

Cooperation of Pickaway county employers in the prompt preparation and return of a special report on employment trends in their respective establishments was solicited Thursday by Miss Mary K. Wolfe, manager of the United States Employment Service office in the court house.

The forms—51,000 of them—were being mailed earlier in the week to all employers in Ohio asking for significant employment figures as well as projected employment trends through April 15, 1946. The data collected on a state-wide basis will be made available to the Ohio Post-War Program Commission for its use in determining the extent of post-war employment and to recommend steps wherever necessary to provide employment.

The completed reports should be forwarded by employers to the Administrative Office of the USES—Bureau of Unemployment Compensation in Columbus, Miss Wolfe said.

FIVE MEN NAMED TO COMMITTEE TO HELP VETS

Selective Service Office Designated As Veterans
Information Center

Five additional reemployment committeemen have been appointed by the national director of selective service to assist the Pickaway county selective service board to carry out its responsibility in connection with the Veterans' Assistance program.

These men have been appointed in addition to Robert L. Brehmer, Circleville, who has been serving as reemployment committeeman since Sept. 8, 1941 without assistance.

The reemployment committeemen, all of whom serve without pay, will render all assistance possible to returning veterans, although it is their primary duty to see that the returning veteran is reinstated in his former job in a position of like status and pay as provided by the Selective Service Act.

The local selective service office has been designated as the Veterans Information Center in Pickaway county and has been functioning as such since the establishment of the Veterans Assistance program. Veterans seeking information or assistance should contact the local board office where they will be referred to a reemployment committeeman or the proper government agency.

The Selective Service system has no jurisdiction over members of the armed forces. The Veterans' assistance program begins to function only when the serviceman has been honorably discharged.

They are as follows: Cecil Briggs, New Holland; Norbert L. Cochran, Circleville; Harold Deffenbaugh, Circleville; Richard H. Robinson, Circleville and E. F. Schlegel, Ashville, R. F. D. 1.

YOUR STAKE IN WORLD AFFAIRS

To help the people of this country better understand the United Nations Charter and their responsibilities to world organization, the American Association for the United Nations is answering questions received reflecting the tremendous interest today and always for lasting peace.

Question: What can the United Nations do to control atomic energy?

Answer: Certainly no one can foresee now all the steps necessary to meet the problems of control of atomic energy as a destructive force. However, the first General Assembly, scheduled to meet on December 4th, might make this its first order of business. It has been suggested that this General Assembly appoint a special committee to consider the problem, and report not only on what controls are needed, but also what additions or revisions in United Nations machinery or organization are necessary to maintain such controls.

Question: Should the United States turn over the secret of the atomic bomb to the United Nations?

Answer: That is a question for our government and public opinion to decide. However, it is important for the United States to state the terms and safeguards on which it would be willing to share with the United Nations its knowledge of the industrial processes involved in the production and use of atomic energy. The principles of atomic energy are not a secret; they are known to the scientists of the world. The secret we have is the industrial secret of manufacture.

Question: With the discovery of the atomic bomb, why all this talk about the United States acquiring strategic bases in the Pacific?

Answer: It may be true that with atomic bombs and jet-propelled planes, the importance of strategic bases is exaggerated. However, no one can now determine what bases will or will not be effective, and we must proceed from where we are today. It will be safer, however, for the United States to proceed under the trusteeship system of the United Nations rather than by outright annexation, which may start an imperialistic race in the name of security.

Question: Can we talk in terms of big powers and small powers today with the atomic bomb?

Answer: It may develop that a small power with atomic bombs is just as powerful as a big power. It is therefore, important to think through the controls necessary over atomic energy as a destructive force. This is a problem for all mankind — big powers and small powers alike, which the United Nations should tackle without delay. It is equally important to consider the positive aspects of atomic energy as a source of benefit for all mankind.

SOFT CORN MAY BE DANGEROUS

Farmers Urged To Use Care In Feeding Immature Or Moldy Corn To Hogs

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4—Farmers were warned today to be careful about feeding soft, immature or moldy corn to hogs this fall, in a special report issued here by the American Foundation for Animal Health.

"Hogs receiving new corn should be started on it lightly," the report suggests. "Animals should be watched closely for signs of digestive disturbance. Such disturbances often allow infections to get a start in the inflamed digestive tract, and these infections can easily develop into enteritis, or turn into blood poisoning.

"If hogs have not been immunized against cholera, feeding soft corn increases the cholera disease hazard. Hogs do not actually contract cholera from soft corn, as many farmers believe, but feeding such corn may lower the resistance of the digestive tract, which is able to make inroads in the herd more easily. Veterinarians also report that farmers frequently mistake soft-corn digestive disturbances for cholera, and vice versa. Because of this, immunization of swine against cholera is probably more important this fall than in any autumn in recent years.

Proper nutritional balance in feeding new corn, and careful checking of the herd for signs of sickness were emphasized as paramount precautions for all swine raisers.

WATSON MILLER NAMED TO AID WAR VETERANS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—President Truman has taken another step toward looking out for veterans.

He has named as the nation's new federal administrator Watson B. Miller, a man who for 18 years guided veterans' rehabilitation work for the American Legion.

Miller, 66, was named to the job by Mr. Truman yesterday to replace Paul V. McNutt, who is now high commissioner to the Philippines. Like McNutt, Miller is a Hoosier. Born in Indiana, he built schools in South America before the last war, in which he served as a captain of motor transport. After the war he became national rehabilitation director of the Legion, becoming acquainted with McNutt who was at one time national commander. He held that job for 18 years and came to work as McNutt's assistant in 1941 at McNutt's request.

For the past few years Miller has been acting head of FSA due to McNutt's preoccupation with his job as war manpower chief. He is married and has a son 10, and a married step-daughter.

The federal security agency is the overall agency combining government bodies aimed at promoting social and economic security, educational opportunity and national health.

The FSA now includes the food and drug administration, the U. S. office of education, the office of vocational rehabilitation, the public health service and the social security board.

ROBERT MERRILL FINDS SENTENCE CUT TO 3 YEARS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—The future looked just a bit less grim today for Pvt. Robert Merrill of Staten Island, N. Y.

The 10-year confinement sentence imposed upon him by an Army board at Ft. Belvoir, Va., for being A. W. O. L. has been reduced by the Army judge advocate general to three years. In addition, the sentence of dishonorable discharge has been suspended.

The 20-year old soldier was found guilty of being AWOL for eight months although evidence at his court martial indicated he had never left Ft. Belvoir during that time.

The trouble was, however, that he was never at his proper post. The court found that he avoided hazardous duty by his action.

He had been twice previously convicted for being absent without leave. Altogether he had been "absent from training" about 430 days out of his 455 days in service.

PROPER CARE WILL REDUCE CORN SPOILAGE

Plenty Of Air In Storage Will Cut Moisture Content Of Grain

Regardless of how Ohio corn is harvested this year, the danger of its spoiling in storage will be considerably reduced in the opinion of Professor R. C. Miller, agricultural engineering department, Ohio State University if the ears are free from silks and husks and if the kernels shelled off in handling are separated from the ears when the corn is put in the crib.

Professor Miller predicts that considerable Ohio corn will go into storage while having 35 per cent of moisture and a smaller portion of the 1945 crop may have as much as 50 per cent of moisture. To be reasonably safe in storage, the moisture of corn should be less than 25 per cent; so provision should be made for protecting corn that contains a higher percentage.

The cheapest way to reduce the water content of stored corn is to let air carry it out of the crib, and this requires adequate ventilation. Husks, silks, and shelled corn fill up spaces between the ears or prevent air from reaching the ears, and either of those conditions reduces the circulation of air through the crib.

Many Ohio farmers now place corn in the crib with a portable elevator and that labor-saving device is likely to increase the amount of shelled kernels. Professor Miller recommends placing a screen in the bottom of the elevator to permit the shelled kernels to fall through, and the shelled corn then can be stored by itself.

Damp fall air is not effective in drying corn, so the best that can be done is to keep the corn cool enough to reduce danger of rot and molding. Freely circulating air, again, is the best agent for holding down the temperature of stored corn. Cross flues in the crib are recommended by Professor Miller when the mixture content of the corn is above the danger point.

STRIKE EPIDEMIC
THERE has been an epidemic of labor strikes lately. It is astonishing how such movements tend to spread when once launched. It was reported, for example, the other day, that a strike of 15,000 building employees in New York City quickly resulted in the idleness of 1,500,000 workers. If it had not been brought in to the channels of arbitration without much delay, it might have spread far more widely.
Along with this movement there have been signs of a possible strike of United Mine workers again, in the soft coal fields, which if launched might have broad and incalculable effects. There has been a big strike of Westinghouse white collar workers, which could cause as much trouble as blue denim collars or no collars at all. The Detroit area is reported as restless, and difficulties exist in various other areas.
Most of these situations seem legitimate enough, in the sense that the workers have some grievances, and also have a technical right to strike. But there is always the danger that strikes called for trivial reasons may spread and result in waves of shut-downs which hamper production and result in large loss to workers and the general public.

RUSSIA AND TRIPOLI
TRIPOLI, like Eritrea, is a former Italian territory in which the Russians are interested. The chief value of both regions is for bargaining purposes. The Italians, coming after the best parts of Africa had been seized by other European powers, built up a showy African empire which really had little value.
Tripoli, along with Algeria and Tunis, used to be a den of pirates. Nominally under the Turkish flag, it was virtually independent. When the Italians conquered it from Turkey in 1910, they got into trouble as soon as they tried to enforce their authority. The Arabs who made up the bulk of the population have made life miserable for the Italian settlers, and gladly helped the British during the North African campaign.
For the Russians to take on Tripoli would be to get into unnecessary trouble. For them to say that they would like it is different.

Central Press Columnist
WASHINGTON—The commanding general of the Army Air forces, Henry H. Arnold, has a problem he would like to talk over with the country.
It is a problem so thick it may lose the general that name "Hap" (for "Happy") Arnold. For how any man, even so popular a fellow as the general, can toss off the proposition he faces without growing grim and gaunt is a riddle to battle the sphinx.
The problem—the disposal of 80,000 airplanes by next June! Eighty thousand shiny, fit air-planes must be "got rid of" within eight months!
What! You say, "get rid" of 80,000 airplanes! Why do that? Silly, don't you know the war is over. And when the war is over, nobody wants anything connected with war. (Not until the next war.) So the powers that be (you find out who they are) say—"Do something with those planes. Nobody needs them now. They are fighting planes. Dump them in the ocean. Blow them up. Dig a hole and bury them. Do anything so you get rid of them, quick. The war is over, we tell you!"
No wonder General Arnold has begun to brood about the job that is heaping up on him. He fought and bled and almost died to get those planes. They cost the taxpayer a pretty penny, too. And now nobody wants them.
"The most planes I can dispose of by what you might call normal methods is 10,000. That leaves me with 70,000!" General Arnold told me.
Seventy thousand planes. I keep muttering on my typewriter. Seventy thousand planes to be destroyed!
"But they don't have to be destroyed beyond all usefulness," said the general in our informal conversation. "I've a plan for their disposal I'd like to get over to the public. You'll help me? Splendid!"
"Well, my plan is something like this: Pig those planes! Let me use a wide, open space out in Utah or Nevada. Let me dump those planes in big furnaces and melt them down. 'Pig' them is the word. Once they're melted down, they're no longer useful as planes. But the material of which they are made is salvaged. How? It's very simple.
"We'd just pile up the 'pigs' in a big heap or in several big heaps and leave them there until the time came to use some of the metal again. For other planes, for automobiles, vacuum cleaners—for anything!"
Pigging the planes would not eliminate them forever. But dropping them in the deepest part of the ocean and forgetting them, would eliminate them.
I asked General Arnold why he was uneasy about his chance of "pigging" the planes. He explained that the "pigging" would cost a little money. You'd have to have labor for the cutting up and melting down. Congress might not understand why more money needed be appropriated now. To him such an appropriation would be economy and a saving of natural resources. Certainly we have no right to waste ore we dug out of the mines for those planes.
As a layman, I completely agree with the wisdom of the general's plan. I told him I'd help get the idea over. I hope I have.
Of those 10,000 planes General Arnold says he can dispose of, several thousand will go to the nation's high schools.
It is General Arnold's wish that each high school able to raise $300 be given a B-29. With this superb machine, high school children may learn to fly. May develop useful inventions for further conquest of the air.
Giving surplus planes away to foreign governments who come a-begging is not as simple a method of "getting rid" of them as some people think. No war materials can be given to foreign nations without consent of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—A naval carrier fighter pilot who fought in the Pacific from the beginning—and a little before—returned home appalled at the intensity of the people and issues he found after long absence. What this country needs, he says, is some fun. His comrades, he reported, had the same idea.
Not many smiles can be found around here and more expletives than anecdotes are available in official sanctums. Yet the precise condition behind most of the glumness and high nerves noticeable in the news actually falls considerably short of justifying or inducing morbidity.
To tell it to you straight, with a primary instance, there has been less excitement over the London conference in congress or the state department than you could expect. State Secretary Byrnes had almost free rein from Mr. Truman to make his own decisions, passed little inside information to Washington. And what he did pass rather suggested the conference table talk was really worse than publicly conceded. Yet gossip that this being the beginning of war with Russia was nowhere taken seriously.
Russia has no air force. She used ours during the war, herself developing only one plane, the Stormovik—and she has no navy. No one can see any possibility of her getting either in the visible future, and the atomic bomb does not yet enter this picture.
But Russia is intense, not only by Slavic nature but by political preferment. Even her army thinks politically on all occasions, with the dominating interest of a nation now with great new-found power, but again with mainly political power attained by a victorious position, as distinct from a world martial power or even a superior industrial power.
I think it is entirely accurate to report the official position here as fearing Russia politically, not otherwise. Indeed, the only common criticism heard of Byrnes is that he gave ground on some points. How could it be otherwise when the British labor party (Attlee and Bevin particularly) won their recent election victory on the claim they could deal with Russia in a more friendly way than Churchill, and therefore better. Theirs proved no better than any other way.
This is a world condition now. If anyone is going to keep tense about it, his diet will be off for a long time, as it will be a continuing condition.
Then there was the fuss over General MacArthur's administration of Japan. As I glean it, Acting State Secretary Acheson did actually speak for Mr. Truman (also incidentally Moscow) when he flung a few volatile words across the Pacific to Tokyo. He was at the White House the day before. But a day or so later, he entered a press conference, asking:
"How does everyone feel now that the storm is over?"
Actually there is now no dissatisfaction with MacArthur's administration in official quarters, and I believe the general sentiment is he is doing a superior job. I am sure the War and Navy departments think he will do a complete job, if left alone.
The trouble on this score, I suspect, was also somewhat political (leftist and communist) although not intense. The most important statement MacArthur has made as far as Washington is concerned, was the one tersely mentioned in dispatches, that he considers his position his last assignment. Lozenges Fight Diphtheria
By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.
IMMUNITY or resistance to disease varies in different people at various times. For example, a child may be given injections early in life to prevent diphtheria. Then, as the child grows older, this immunity or resistance may gradually be lost.
For this reason, it has been advised that a stimulating or booster injection of diphtheria toxoid be given to children when they reach five or six years of age and enter school.
Other Ways
Efforts have been made to produce immunity or resistance in ways other than by giving injections, and Doctor Guy Bousfield of England has been seeking ways of doing this. At present, the best method of producing immunity against diphtheria is by giving injections of toxoid to babies under one year of age.
However, Doctor Bousfield has carried out some experiments to determine if a preparation taken by mouth may not be used at a later time, to have a booster effect. He devised a pastille or lozenge of fairly firm gelatin, containing toxoid. This lozenge was suitably sweetened and was flavored, as with peppermint.
Daily Doses
Some of the persons were given three of the lozenges daily for a period of seven days, while others took only two daily, for seven days. Doctor Bousfield also made tests to determine if swallowing the lozenges was better than sucking them.
As a result of his experiments, Doctor Bousfield thinks that in both children and grownups who have been immune to diphtheria in the past, the use of the lozenges will serve to increase the resistance to diphtheria. However, he finds that the lozenges must be sucked slowly and not swallowed rapidly. There is no unfavorable reaction to the use of the lozenges.
Antitoxin Quite Marked
In some instances, he has found that the amount of diphtheria antitoxin produced in the blood is quite marked when the lozenges are employed. He thinks that the greatest value of this method may be with nurses or men in the armed forces in whom it is important to avoid general upsets of any type such as might be produced by the injection of diphtheria toxoid or toxin antitoxin. Of course, in children, such reactions are quite infrequent, and continuance of the use of the injections may be preferred.
In the prevention of other diseases such as tetanus, Doctor Bousfield suggests that the use of similar pastilles might be found of value, using a tetanus or other toxoid instead of diphtheria toxoid, and he states that a great deal of further experimentation will be needed to prove definitely the value of this method.

by LORENA CARLETON

CHAPTER THIRTY TWO
BY "MY ROOM" Susy meant the largest, most lavish set of rooms the Mesquite possessed. She had taken them for herself when she first arrived at the ranch. She walked through them now, swiftly, in search of her maid.
"Get out," she said roughly, to an elderly gray-haired woman. "Don't come back until we are gone."
The servant did not answer. She just tossed a coat over her uniform and went into the swimming pool patio.
Susy Adams closed the door behind her, also a wide open window. "Now, I'm going to tell you something, Belinda. You are getting so unmanageable, so obstinate, so surly—" She stopped to draw an angry breath. "Also so GROWNUP, that I think it is about time you are told this."
Belinda did not fit any of those denunciations. She was simply an unhappy looking little girl, filled with a strange foreboding.
"Mother," she said tonelessly, "I know you don't love me and, if you can't, that's all right, because I can't love you either." She wet her lips. "I've learned to get along without you. I just wish you'd let me alone. Even before other people you could let me alone. We could stay kind of away from each other."
Her face crinkled. "Don't give me that stuffy stuff when others are around. Really, Mother, it makes my stomach roll over."
"I'm going to tell you alone. That's why I'm sending you away. I intend to stay right here at the Mesquite until your father comes slinking back. And he will. He can't stay away forever. And while I wait," she said cruelly, "I can't stand to look at you."
Belinda was still standing up. She glanced down at her mother, who seemed to be lounging, totally relaxed, on the deep sofa. In reality, Susy Adams was tensed for action. She proved it now by snatching her daughter's hand and pulling her down beside her on the sofa.
"Please, Mother. I'd like to go now."
"Certainly you would. You'd like to get back to that little British snob?" Her grasp on her child's hand tightened to the point of pain. "But you're not going for a while."
Belinda's free hand tightened about the Christmas box, beneath her arm. Along with that protection, she offered one for Spenser.
"He is not a snob!" She forgot that she had told her own father that the boy was snooty.
"Snobish!" persisted the blond woman. "And ill-mannered along with it."
One side of Belinda's mouth lifted. She did not realize how similar the mannerism was to that of her father. Consequently she could not know how it infuriated her mother.
"And he is so truthful, isn't he, mother?" she said with meaning. She went on, enjoying in an unhappy way, the look on her mother's face. "O. K., Mother. I'm 12 years old. And you can't take it. So send me away so you can be a young girl again. Bernie said that kind of stuff was old-hat. He said nowadays, with the movie stars having lots of children and letting them get big if they wanted to, that it was funny to see some dame trying to keep hers in rompers."
"That onion-eyed snob!" said Susy scathingly. "I'm not interested in what he has to say. Typical friend of your father's. And that's what I want to talk to you about, Belinda. Your father."
"Be careful!" warned the child. "I don't have to be careful. This is true. And you have to know it. You think your father is so wonderful—don't talk, Belinda," she rushed to say. "You've just made a nice little speech. Now you can listen to one."
"Your father and you seem to have some idea of adding Sandra Edwards to your little twosome. I'd not plan on it. In the first place, I don't intend to divorce him, and if he tries to divorce me—" An unattractive smile tightened her lips. "I shall not only take you, but I'll disgrace him."
"If Dad stopped—" Belinda could not speak openly about her father's weakness. "You couldn't take me away from him if he stopped it. And you couldn't shame him, either."
"We're not talking about the same thing, Belinda. I'm talking about your father taking money out of your grandfather's safe—" "I don't believe you!" screamed the little girl.
"Oh, but he did," Susy continued in a slow, even voice. "My attorney and I caught him. He had some story about my father having left a letter giving him the safe combination, saying that he was to have what was in there—" "Well then!" approved the little girl.
"Somehow your father could not produce the letter he SAID my father had written him."
Her slow insinuation brought hot red color into Belinda's cheeks. "I hate you, Mother." The chill, dispassionate way in which she said it made it sound more deadly.
"That doesn't matter to me. You see now, don't you, Belinda, that you needn't plan any future connected with Sandra Edwards. I'd squelch it, just as I said."
The young girl shook her head, unbelievably. "You'd do a thing like that to keep me, when you don't even like me? I can't see any reason. And I can't see any reason for you wanting to keep Dad when you don't like him, either."
"You'll understand when you are older. Your father left me." Her face was distorted as she repeated: "He had the nerve to LEAVE me. So, for that reason, I'll see that he never really gets away from me." Suddenly she smiled, a little smug smile. It frightened Belinda more than her mother's fury.
Still she remained, of her own free will now, not because of the grasp of her mother's hand. There was something else she wanted to know.

STRIKE EPIDEMIC

THERE has been an epidemic of labor strikes lately. It is astonishing how such movements tend to spread when once launched. It was reported, for example, the other day, that a strike of 15,000 building employees in New York City quickly resulted in the idleness of 1,500,000 workers. If it had not been brought in to the channels of arbitration without much delay, it might have spread far more widely.

Along with this movement there have been signs of a possible strike of United Mine workers again, in the soft coal fields, which if launched might have broad and incalculable effects. There has been a big strike of Westinghouse white collar workers, which could cause as much trouble as blue denim collars or no collars at all. The Detroit area is reported as restless, and difficulties exist in various other areas.

Most of these situations seem legitimate enough, in the sense that the workers have some grievances, and also have a technical right to strike. But there is always the danger that strikes called for trivial reasons may spread and result in waves of shut-downs which hamper production and result in large loss to workers and the general public.

RUSSIA AND TRIPOLI

TRIPOLI, like Eritrea, is a former Italian territory in which the Russians are interested. The chief value of both regions is for bargaining purposes. The Italians, coming after the best parts of Africa had been seized by other European powers, built up a showy African empire which really had little value.

Tripoli, along with Algeria and Tunis, used to be a den of pirates. Nominally under the Turkish flag, it was virtually independent. When the Italians conquered it from Turkey in 1910, they got into trouble as soon as they tried to enforce their authority. The Arabs who make up the bulk of the population have made life miserable for the Italian settlers, and gladly helped the British during the North African campaign.

For the Russians to take on Tripoli would be to get into unnecessary trouble. For them to say that they would like it is different.

CHAPTER THIRTY TWO

BY "MY ROOM" Susy meant the largest, most lavish set of rooms the Mesquite possessed. She had taken them for herself when she first arrived at the ranch. She walked through them now, swiftly, in search of her maid.

"Get out," she said roughly, to an elderly gray-haired woman. "Don't come back until we are gone."

The servant did not answer. She just tossed a coat over her uniform and went into the swimming pool patio.

Susy Adams closed the door behind her, also a wide open window. "Now, I'm going to tell you something, Belinda. You are getting so unmanageable, so obstinate, so surly—" She stopped to draw an angry breath. "Also so GROWNUP, that I think it is about time you are told this."

Belinda did not fit any of those denunciations. She was simply an unhappy looking little girl, filled with a strange foreboding.

"Mother," she said tonelessly, "I know you don't love me and, if you can't, that's all right, because I can't love you either." She wet her lips. "I've learned to get along without you. I just wish you'd let me alone. Even before other people you could let me alone. We could stay kind of away from each other." Her face crinkled. "Don't give me that slushy stuff when others are around. Really, Mother, it makes my stomach roll over."

"I'm going to let you alone. That's why I'm sending you away. I intend to stay right here at the Mesquite until your father comes slinking back. And he will. He can't stay away forever. And while I wait to look at you."

Belinda was still standing up. She glanced down at her mother, who seemed to be lounging, totally relaxed, on the deep sofa. In reality, Susy Adams was tensed for action. She proved it now by snatching her daughter's hand and pulling her down beside her on the sofa.

"Please, Mother. I'd like to go now."

"Certainly you would. You'd like to get back to that little British snob." Her grasp on her child's hand tightened to the point of pain. "But you're not going for a while."

Belinda's free hand tightened about the Christmas box, beneath her arm. Along with that protection, she offered one for Spenser. "He is not a snob!" She forgot that she had told her own father that the boy was snooty.

"Snobish!" persisted the blond woman. "And ill-mannered along with it."

One side of Belinda's mouth lifted. She did not realize how similar the mannerism was to that of her father. Consequently she could not know how it infuriated her mother. "And he is so truthful, isn't he, mother?" she said with meaning. She went on, enjoying in an unhappy way, the look on her mother's face. "O. K., Mother. I'm 12 years old. And you can't take it. So send me away so you can be a young girl again. Bernie said that kind of stuff was old-hat. He said nowadays, with the movie stars having lots of children and letting them get big if they wanted to, that it sure was funny to see some dame trying to keep her in rompers."

"That onion-eyed snob!" said Susy scathingly. "I'm not interested in what he has to say. Typical friend of your father's. And that's what I want to talk to you about, Belinda. Your father."

"Be careful!" warned the child. "I don't have to be careful. This is true. And you have to know it. You think your father is so wonderful—don't talk, Belinda," she rushed to say. "You've just made a nice little speech. Now you can listen to one."

"Your father and you seem to have some idea of adding Sandra Edwards to your little twosome. I don't plan on it. In the first place, I don't intend to divorce him, and if he tries to divorce me—" An unattractive smile tightened her lips. "I shall not only take you, but I'll disgrace him."

"If Dad stopped—" Belinda could not speak openly about her father's weakness. "You couldn't take me away from him if he stopped it. And you couldn't shame him, either."

"We're not talking about the same thing, Belinda. I'm talking about your father taking money out of your grandfather's safe—"

"I don't believe you!" screamed the little girl.

"Oh, but he did," Susy continued in a slow, even voice. "My attorney and I caught him. He had some story about my father having left a letter giving him the safe combination, saying that he was to have what was in there—"

"Well then?" approved the little girl.

"Somehow your father could not produce the letter he SAID my father had written him."

Her slow insinuation brought hot red color into Belinda's cheeks. "I hate you, Mother. The chill, dispassionate way in which she said it made it sound more deadly."

"That doesn't matter to me. You see now, don't you, Belinda, that you needn't plan any future connected with Sandra Edwards. I'd squelch it, just as I said."

The young girl shook her head, unbelievably. "You'd do a thing like that to keep me, when you don't even like me? I can't see any reason. And I can't see any reason for you wanting to keep Dad when you don't like him, either."

"You'll understand when you are older. Your father left me." Her face was distorted as she repeated: "He had the nerve to LEAVE me. So, for that reason, I'll see that he never really gets away from me."

Suddenly she smiled, a little smug smile. It frightened Belinda more than her mother's fury.

Still she remained, of her own free will now, not because of the grasp of her mother's hand. There was something else she wanted to know.

GIVE YOUR LUCK CREDIT

SELDOM is the average player humble enough, or frank enough, to give proper credit to his luck when a contract is made because of it. Often the result hinges upon a factor which nobody would consider—merely because there is no evidence on which to base any recognition that such a factor exists. Such little things as having a doubleton in a certain worthless side suit or a trebleton in another—or having those holdings reversed—can sometimes settle the fate of the project.

"There was nothing the matter with your double that I could see," answered South. "Didn't you set me?"

"Yes," West responded, "but solely through luck. If you had held two clubs and three diamonds, you would have made it. I was simply lucky and you were not."

Tigers To Play Second Home Game Friday Night

GRANDVIEW 11 OPPOSES CHS UNDER LIGHTS

Play Will Start At 8 P. M.; Large Crowd To See Tigers Try For Third Win

An overflow crowd is expected Friday night when the Circleville high school Tigers play their second home game of the season. Grandview, a strong Columbus team, will be the opposition when the officials blow their whistles Friday at 8 p. m. at the high school field. The team will be accompanied by the school's marching band and a throng of supporters. The Tigers will be seeking their third victory of the season Friday night. Last week they played good ball but ran into an inspired Westerville team that got a big break in the first quarter and held on to the advantage it gave the club.

Two regular backs watched the game from the sidelines last week. They probably will be on the bench again this week. Jack Hennis did not start last week because of an knee injury suffered in practice and Leonard Hill was out most of the game after the first few minutes of play when he was hurt while punting. Hill now is out for the season. Later examination of his injury of last week revealed a chipped bone in his foot. Hennis is showing some improvement and may play some but will not be in top form for the contest.

The starting backfield this week probably will find "Skeet" Smallwood at quarterback; Rod Heine at left halfback; Jack H. Stout at right half and Jack M. Stout at fullback. Bob Steele, Jack Palm and "Red" Crawford also probably will see action in the backfield. Earl Palm, who has been playing in the line, may get some action in the backfield.

The line probably will be the same as the one which has been playing good ball since the opener. Gailend Valentine and Carl Cupp are scheduled to handle the ends; Harry Conley and Dick Koch the tackles; Gene Richardson and Jim Carter, guards and John Fissell, center.

Grandview handed Linden McKinley a sound trouncing, then lost to Columbus North and last week was edged by Bexley. The team is said to be big and include some very good players. Circleville high school officials again Thursday reminded fans of the new ticket policy. No student tickets will be sold at the gate. They must be bought not later than Friday afternoon at the school.

Adult tickets will be sold as usual at the gate. The elimination of student tickets at the gate is expected to speed up the sale at the game and eliminate the long lines which form while fans try to get into the game.

OHIO, PURDUE PICKED TO WIN

Fraley Names Grid Winners While Making Notes On World Series

BY OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

DETROIT, Oct. 4.—Buttressed within the World Series baselines of Briggs stadium—the third edition of Fraley's Follies, or the weekend football winners.

The East.
Army over Wake Forest—and Manager Cholly Grimm is an easy guy, too.

Yale over Holy Cross—Stan Hack wrangles steers and chews tobacco.

Navy over Duke—Peanuts Lowrey is plenty salty.

Pitt over Bucknell—Phil Cavarretta: good hit, good field, good guy.

Penn over Dartmouth—Andy Patko, a rookie, but not at milking cows.

Also: Brown over Boston College; Columbia over Syracuse; Temple over NYU; Franklin and Marshall over Muhlenberg; Princeton over Lafayette; Colgate over Penn State, and Detroit over Scranton.

The Midwest.
Illinois over Indiana—Bill Nicholson, color blind only.

Minnesota over Nebraska—Mickey Livingston socks 'em.

Michigan over Northwestern—Roy Hughes steadies away the blues.

Ohio State over Iowa—Hank Wyser: corset or no, he's in form.

Also: Kentucky over Michigan State; Purdue over Wisconsin; and Baldwin Wallace over Case.

The South.
Georgia Tech over Notre Dame—and Steve O'Neill is pretty jittery.

Mississippi over Vanderbilt—Skeeter Webb is seeing red.

(poetry yet)
Alabama over LSU—Eddie Mayo is a real blue chip guy.

Georgia over Miami—Doc Cramer is known as "Flit" because he's death on flies.

Clemson over North Carolina State—easy as Hank Greenberg hits homers.

Also: Auburn over Mississippi State; Maryland over Richmond; Virginia over VMI, and North Carolina over VMI.

The West.
UCLA over COP—Roy Cullenbine is one of the best bowlers and golfers in the majors.

California over Washington—Rudy York is of German-Irish-Indian descent.

Southern California over St. Marys Pre-Flight—Jimmy Outlaw robs 'em of hits.

Oregon over Idaho—Paul Richards, poor fellow, is a sports writer in the off-season.

Also: Colorado over Utah; Ft. Warren over Colorado State; Brigham Young over Utah State.

The Southwest.
Oklahoma A & M over Denver—Virgil Trucks is another of those Irish-Indian combinations.

Arkansas over TCU—Stubby Overmire is a Dutch devastator.

Texas A&M over Oklahoma—you folks sure have plenty of patience.

Also: Rice over Southwestern, Texas over Texas Tech and Tulsa over Drake.

(season record: 81 right, 13 wrong.)

Termites, we read, have low intelligence despite the fact that when they tackle a book they devour each word.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with astringent and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

DAVIS, ROOFERS TAKE HONORS IN WEDNESDAY LOOP

JOBLESS PAY CHECKS DELAYED

Reasons Outlined For Slow Delivery Of Benefits To Unemployed

The reason for delays in the delivery of unemployment compensation checks was explained by Miss Mary K. Wolfe, manager of the local U. S. Employment Service office Thursday.

Despite the great increase in claims load, the central office at Columbus is mailing checks to most regular claimants who became unemployed since V-J Day within the fifth or sixth week of their unemployment. In normal times, claimant could receive his benefit in the fourth week, she said.

The reason for the present two or three-week delay is that an unemployed worker cannot file his first claim until after a calendar week has transpired during which he was either totally unemployed or his earnings were less than his weekly benefit amount. The law then requires a two-week waiting period during which no benefits can be paid, she said.

A claimant does not become eligible or entitled to a benefit payment until after he has been unemployed three full weeks. The third week of his unemployment, in other words, is the first for which he can file a compensable claim. He cannot file for this third week until it is over, of course, so it is the fourth week of his unemployment before he even files a compensable claim.

Assuming that he filed this compensable claim early in that fourth week, even in normal times the earliest a check could be mailed to him from Columbus would be the latter part of that fourth week. In most instances, however, it was the fifth week.

At the present time, the Columbus office is about one week late in mailing checks to regular claimants because of the greatly increased claims load. Thus, first checks are going out to most claimants during the fifth or sixth week of their unemployment. This is a temporary condition which is rapidly being alleviated.

Exceptions to this timing occur, of course, where there is any irregularity about a claim. Then the time a check will be mailed may be later.

LIFE WENT ON AS USUAL IN HIDDEN ATOM CITY

WHEN THE FIRST CAMERAMEN were allowed to visit the atomic bomb project laboratory at Los Alamos, N. M., they found a little city of 6,000 persons who, for three years, had figuratively ceased to exist as they built a tiny hidden world of their own on a 45,000-acre mesa in the Jemez mountains, some 40 miles from Santa Fe. Here is shown a kindergarten for the youngsters. The oldsters had a radio station, theater and shops, and they lived in one-family houses. Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer and his American and British colleagues carried on their secret atomic bomb experiments here and work still goes on.

AT TAX HEARING IN WASHINGTON

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY, Fred Vinson, left, visits Capitol hill with his plea for lower income taxes and is shown above conferring with Rep. Robert L. Doughton, chairman of the House Ways and Means committee. The secretary announced he would oppose any horizontal tax cuts such as those proposed by GOP leaders, as he recommended the repealing of the 3 per cent normal tax on individual incomes and the 95 per cent excise profit tax. Despite the great increase in claims load, the central office at Columbus is mailing checks to most regular claimants who became unemployed since V-J Day within the fifth or sixth week of their unemployment. In normal times, claimant could receive his benefit in the fourth week, she said.

The reason for the present two or three-week delay is that an unemployed worker cannot file his first claim until after a calendar week has transpired during which he was either totally unemployed or his earnings were less than his weekly benefit amount. The law then requires a two-weeks waiting period during which no benefits can be paid, she said.

A claimant does not become eligible or entitled to a benefit payment until after he has been unemployed three full weeks. The third week of his unemployment, in other words, is the first for which he can file a compensable claim. He cannot file for this third week until it is over, of course, so it is the fourth week of his unemployment before he even files a compensable claim.

Assuming that he filed this compensable claim early in that fourth week, even in normal times the earliest a check could be mailed to him from Columbus would be the latter part of that fourth week. In most instances, however, it was the fifth week.

At the present time, the Columbus office is about one week late in mailing checks to regular claimants because of the greatly increased claims load. Thus, first checks are going out to most claimants during the fifth or sixth week of their unemployment. This is a temporary condition which is rapidly being alleviated.

Exceptions to this timing occur, of course, where there is any irregularity about a claim. Then the time a check will be mailed may be later.

LIFE WENT ON AS USUAL IN HIDDEN ATOM CITY

WHEN THE FIRST CAMERAMEN were allowed to visit the atomic bomb project laboratory at Los Alamos, N. M., they found a little city of 6,000 persons who, for three years, had figuratively ceased to exist as they built a tiny hidden world of their own on a 45,000-acre mesa in the Jemez mountains, some 40 miles from Santa Fe. Here is shown a kindergarten for the youngsters. The oldest had a radio station, theater and shops, and they lived in one-family houses. Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer and his American and British colleagues carried on their secret atomic bomb experiments here and work still goes on.

AT TAX HEARING IN WASHINGTON

Secretary of the Treasury, Fred Vinson, left, visits Capitol hill with his plea for lower income taxes and is shown above conferring with Rep. Robert L. Doughton, chairman of the House Ways and Means committee. The secretary announced he would oppose any horizontal tax cuts such as those proposed by GOP leaders, as he recommended the repealing of the 3 per cent normal tax on individual incomes and the 95 per cent excise profit tax. ## CORN HUSKING CONTEST SET

Roger Hedges Farm To Be Scene Of FFA-Sponsored Contest October 27

The Pickaway and Jackson chapters of Future Farmers of America are sponsoring a Pickaway county corn husking contest to be held on the Roger Hedges farm October 27.

The contest for boys is scheduled to start at 10 a. m. and the adult contest at 1 p. m.

The schoolboy contest is open to any high school boy enrolled in vocational agriculture as of the first day of the second week of school. The adult contest is open to any farmer living in Pickaway county.

Students and farmers from other counties or schools may compete but are not eligible to win trophies. Each school may enter two boys as a team.

Persons wishing to enter either contest must send in their entries to Hillis H. Hall, 407 East Franklin street, Circleville, on or before midnight October 15.

Each entrant will be sent a set of rules when his entry is received by Mr. Hall.

PIG RAISED BY 4-H BOY STATE GRAND CHAMPION

His former owner has been informed that Gold Block, now owned by Ohio State University, this year was the state grand champion in the Spotted Poland China show.

The pig was purchased by the university from Adrian Liston, of Monroe township 4-H club. It was exhibited at the Pickaway county 4-H club show two years ago.

silken strands which she produces from the spinnerets attached to the underside of her abdomen.

As soon as the spider's prey is completely helpless she dashes in and bites it on the leg or some other unprotected portion of its body. Soon the tiny bit of poison from her jaws takes effect, paralyzing the victim. Then she eats it.

Another spider is as good eating as anything so during the mating season the male has to be extremely careful unless he wants to lose a leg or two, or be devoured entirely.

Upon approaching the lady in her nest he generally makes his presence and purpose known by plucking gently on the strands of her web. If she does not attempt to eat him, but answers his telegraphic messages with returning taps on the silk, he knows it is safe to enter.

After the mating, though, he had better make himself scarce—and quickly. For the female no longer recognizes him and, if she can, she will eat him.

N. S. Jambunathan, an Indian specialist, says that in his country, because of this strange antagonism between spider sexes, many species of males are often dwarfed, dirty-colored creatures and hardly recognizable as spiders at all. Oh, it is a hard life, all right—being a daddy spider.

Spider Has No Brains

Despite the perfect symmetry and beauty of their webs, Professor Petrunkevitch claims that spiders are absolutely lacking in intelligence. All of their actions seem entirely automatic, even to the weaving of their most intricately patterned designs.

All nature has its enemies and the spider is no exception. Her nemesis is the wasp.

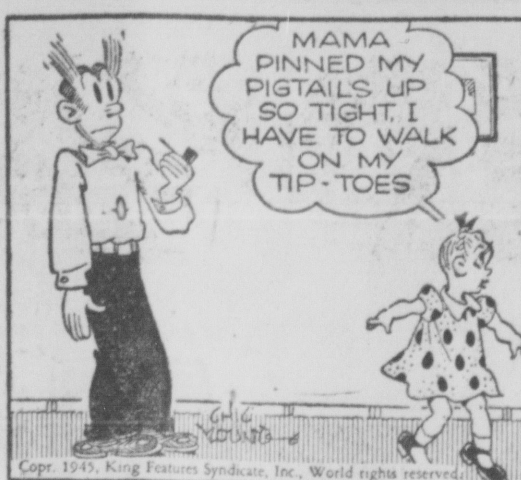

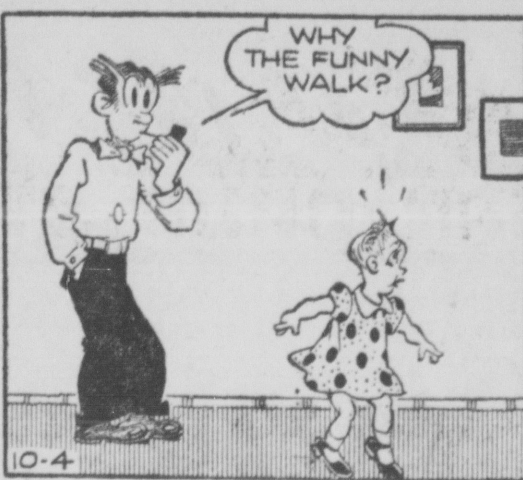

This vicious looking, winged creature swoops down on the spider and with a little poison of her own peculiar type paralyzes her victim—but does not kill it. Instead, the wasp drags the paralyzed to her nest. Here she lays her larvae into the living body of the spider to insure a plentiful supply of fresh food until the young are hatched. Professor Petrunkevitch has kept a tarantula alive as long as six months while it was thus anesthetized.

Meaning, Significance Of History Day Meeting At Logan Elm Outlined

With the coming of another History Day meeting at Logan Elm park, which is scheduled for next Sunday, the committee wishes again to urge parents and teachers to explain to their children the meaning and significance of this day and to impress upon them the importance of local history.

Few histories give much information regarding the man who so many years ago delivered a message to John Gibson, the interpreter for Lord Dunmore on the site of what is now Logan Elm park.

This message which was copied in the official reports of Lord Dunmore has been likened to Abraham Lincoln's dedicatory address at Gettysburg.

Chief Logan, or Tah-gah-jute, was an Iroquois Indian and was born at Shamokin, Pa. but he lived beyond the land boundary of that tribe so he was called a Mingo. History does tell however that few if any person ever surpassed Logan for magnanimity in war and greatness of soul, in peace. He was always acknowledged the friend of the white people, until the year 1774.

At that time Chief Logan was living in the Ohio country near the little village of Westfall and in the Spring of that year the little settlement of Wheeling was started by a message from the forks of the Ohio that a state of war existed with the Shawnee Indians and their allies. In the ensuing excitement, among retaliatory murders in which white traders and then Indians were killed, the little harmless band of Mingos that included the sister and relatives of Logan were murdered by part of Cresap's men under the charge of Daniel Greathouse.

The patient Logan at last sought revenge against the white settlers for their treatment of his people near the mouth of Yellow creek. Raids on white settlements and Indian reprisals swept the advanced settler groups. Virginia sent an army into the Scioto Valley to subdue the Shawnees and their allies. Lord Dunmore led a division up the Hocking river toward the villages of Cornstalk and Grenadier Squaw on Scioto creek. The Indians admitted defeat and agreed for peace at Camp Charlotte. The chiefs of each Indian tribe met Lord Dunmore to sign a truce. All but one. The massacre at Yellow creek had converted the kind and peace-loving Logan into a revengeful, sorrowful and disillusioned man. When commanded by Lord Dunmore to appear at the treaty, he refused. John Gibson was sent to bring him in. He met Logan near the giant Elm that now bears his name and with tears Logan dictated to Gibson For Lord Dunmore this message—

"I appeal to any white man to say, if ever he entered Logan's cabin hungry and he gave him not meat; if ever he came cold and naked and he clothed him not. During the course of the last long and bloody war, Logan remained idle in his cabin, an advocate for peace. Such was my love for the whites that my countrymen pointed as they passed and said, 'Logan is the friend of white men'. I had even thought to live with you but for the injuries of one man. Colonel Cresap, the last spring in cold blood and unprovoked, murdered all the relatives of Logan; not sparing even his women and children.

"I appeal to any white man to say, if ever he entered Logan's cabin hungry and he gave him not meat; if ever he came cold and naked and he clothed him not. During the course of the last long and bloody war, Logan remained idle in his cabin, an advocate for peace. Such was my love for the whites that my countrymen pointed as they passed and said, 'Logan is the friend of white men'. I had even thought to live with you but for the injuries of one man. Colonel Cresap, the last spring in cold blood and unprovoked, murdered all the relatives of Logan; not sparing even his women and children.

There runs not a drop of my blood in the veins of any living creature. This called on me for revenge. I have sought it; I have killed many. I have fully glutted my vengeance. For my Country I rejoice at the beams of peace. Yet, do not harbor the thought that mine is the joy of fear. Logan never felt fear. He will not turn on his heel to save his life. Who is there to mourn for Logan? Not one."

Thomas Jefferson, in speaking of this message of Chief Logan which he had read from the official reports of Lord Dunmore, said "I may challenge the whole orations of Demosthenes and Cicero and of any more eminent orator, if Europe has furnished any more eminent, to produce a single passage superior to the speech of Logan, a Mingo Chief, to Lord Dunmore."

The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt said of Logan's speech: "It is one which will always retain a place as perhaps the finest outburst of savage eloquence of which we have any authentic record."

PFC. SHIRKEY FREED FROM JAP PRISON CAMP

Pfc. Orville R. Shirkey, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shirkey of Orient and nephew of Mrs. Robert Leist of Circleville, has been freed from 40 months' captivity in a Japanese prison camp and expects to be home soon, he informs his parents by letter.

Pfc. Shirkey was captured at Corregidor after participating in the heroic last-ditch stand there under General Wainwright. He then was taken to Osaka and suffered the privations of the Japanese prison camp there for nearly three and one-half years.

He entered the service in April, 1941, and was sent overseas the following October arriving just in time to take his place in the line holding out against the Japs in their early smash against numerically inferior American and Philippine forces.

THEFT REPORTED

The theft of two tires and wheels from a State Highway department road maintainer sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning while it was parked on route 23 south of Circleville has been reported by the Sheriff's office.

Put summer clothes away clean but not starched. Starched clothes, when folded a long time, may crack along the folds. Also there is some danger from little insects called silver fish which nibble starched fabrics and rayons.

Americans have a word for it

Bill Larkin's boy, who's back from overseas for good, was telling us about the funny customs and the different languages of European countries.

One thing he noticed is that in so many of those countries there is no word for "home." "House," yes . . . or "building." But no name that stands for what we mean when we say home.

"In spite of the fact," says Bill, "that it's the most important thing there is . . . a place where you can take your shoes off and let down your hair . . . enjoy a glass of beer before the fire and relax with folks you love!"

From where I sit, that may be an important difference between this country and some others. The conception of home as a place of tolerance and sacred loyalties—where differences of habit and opinion give way before love and understanding! Yes, we Americans have a name for it!

Chief Logan, or Tah-gah-jute, was an Iroquois Indian and was born at Shamokin, Pa. but he lived beyond the land boundary of that tribe so he was called a Mingo. History does tell however that few if any person ever surpassed Logan for magnanimity in war and greatness of soul in peace. He was always acknowledged the friend of the white people, until the year 1774.

At that time Chief Logan was living in the Ohio country near the little village of Westfall and in the Spring of that year the little settlement of Wheeling was started by a message from the forks of the Ohio that a state of war existed with the Shawnee Indians and their allies. In the ensuing excitement, among retaliatory murders in which white traders and then Indians were killed, the little harmless band of Mingos that included the sister and relatives of Logan were murdered by part of Cresap's men under the charge of Daniel Greathouse.

The patient Logan at last sought revenge against the white settlers for their treatment of his people near the mouth of Yellow creek. Raids on white settlements and Indian reprisals swept the advanced settler groups. Virginia sent an army into the Scioto Valley to subdue the Shawnees and their allies. Lord Dunmore led a division up the Hocking river toward the villages of Cornstalk and Grenadier Squaw on Scioto creek. The Indians admitted defeat and agreed for peace at Camp Charlotte. The chiefs of each Indian tribe met Lord Dunmore to sign a treaty. All but one, the massacre at Yellow creek had converted the kind and peace-loving Logan into a revengeful, sorrowful and disillusioned man. When commanded by Lord Dunmore to appear at the treaty, he refused. John Gibson was sent to bring him in. He met Logan near the giant Elm that now bears his name and with tears Logan dictated to Gibson for Lord Dunmore this message—

"I appeal to any white man to say, if ever he entered Logan's cabin hungry and he gave him not meat; if ever he came cold and naked and he clothed him not. During the course of the last long and bloody war, Logan remained idle in his cabin, an advocate for peace. Such was my love for the whites that my countrymen pointed as they passed and said, 'Logan is the friend of white men.' I had even thought to live with you but for the injuries of one man, Colonel Cresap, the last spring in cold blood and unprovoked, murdered all the relatives of Logan: not sparing even his women and children. There runs not a drop of my blood in the veins of any living creature. This called on me for revenge. I have sought it: I have killed many. I have fully glutted my vengeance. For my Country I rejoice at the beams of peace. Yet, do not harbor the thought that mine is the joy of fear. Logan never felt fear. He will not turn on his heel to save his life. Who is there to mourn for Logan? Not one."

Thomas Jefferson, in speaking of this message of Chief Logan which he had read from the official reports of Lord Dunmore, said "I may challenge the whole orations of Demosthenes and Cicero and of anyone eminent orator, if Europe has furnished any more eminent, to produce a single passage superior to the speech of Logan, a Mingo Chief, to Lord Dunmore."

The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt said of Logan's speech: "It is one which will always retain a place as perhaps the finest outburst of savage eloquence of which we have any authentic record."

PFC. SHIRKEY FREED FROM JAP PRISON CAMP

Pfc. Orville R. Shirkey, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shirkey of Orient and nephew of Mrs. Robert Leist of Circleville, has been freed from 40 months' captivity in a Japanese prison camp and expects to be home soon, he informs his parents by letter.

Pfc. Shirkey was captured at Corregidor after participating in the heroic last-ditch stand there under General Wainwright. He then was taken to Osaka and suffered the privations of the Japanese prison camp there for nearly three and one-half years.

He entered the service in April, 1941, and was sent overseas the following October arriving just in time to take his place in the line holding out against the Japs in their early smash against numerically inferior American and Philippine forces.

THEFT REPORTED

The theft of two tires and wheels from a State Highway department road maintainer sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning while it was parked on route 23 south of Circleville has been reported by the Sheriff's office.

Put summer clothes away clean but not starched. Starched clothes, when folded a long time, may crack along the folds. Also there is some danger from little insects called silver fish which nibble starched fabrics and rayons.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Americans have a word for it

Bill Larkin's boy, who's back from overseas for good, was telling us about the funny customs and the different languages of European countries.

One thing he noticed is that in so many of those countries there is no word for "home." "House," yes... or "building." But no name that stands for what we mean when we say home.

"In spite of the fact," says Bill, "that it's the most important thing there is... a place where you can take your shoes off and let down your hair... enjoy a glass of beer before the fire and relax with folks you love!"

From where I sit, that may be an important difference between this country and some others. The conception of home as a place of tolerance and sacred loyalties—where differences of habit and opinion give way before love and understanding! Yes, we Americans have a name for it!
